FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE – September 29, 2010

Stephen Mullally of Grand Forks Inducted into the North Dakota Recreation and Park Association (NDRPA) Hall of Fame

Grand Forks, ND – Stephen Mullally, Superintendent of Parks of the Grand Forks Park District received the North Dakota Recreation and Park Association (NDRPA) Hall of Fame Award at the NDRPA Annual State Conference in Fargo, ND on September 15th. The Hall of Fame Award is one which the NDRPA honors individuals who have made outstanding contributions to the parks and recreation field in North Dakota based on a reputable performance attested to a personal record of accomplishment.

The NDRPA is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit member organization whose mission is advancing parks and recreation for quality of life in North Dakota.

Mullally has been part of countless NDRPA board committees and served at various levels of leadership over the years. His contribution to the betterment of the NDRPA is substantial, as he is one of the “veteran” members who have worked to establish and solidify the mission of the organization. His efforts and continuous attention to the importance of cross-pollinating work and ideas from across the state of North Dakota has led to the enhancement and progression of the Association.

Mullally has been the Superintendent of Parks at the Grand Forks Park District for 36 years.
